

Will Inflation Benefit?

One of the many results flowing out of the Great War was the development of a narrow nationalism which found expression in many ways and has had a profound effect upon not only national policies but in forms and methods of government. Out of the Great War grew an economic warfare more intense than in the years that preceded that titanic struggle. That economic war led to the use of tariffs, quotas, and other trade restrictions on a scale hitherto unknown. All nations engaged in it, some reluctantly, but because they were forced into it by the actions of other nations.

As this economic warfare progressed it inevitably led to still another war—a war of exchange. The value of the currency of one nation rose or fell in relation to the value of the currencies of other nations, and as it rose or fell it directly affected the trade of the nations as well as the whole financial structure of all, and the ability of one group of people to meet its obligations to another group.

From this it was but a short step to a third form of warfare now being waged—a war of currencies. Some nations,—most of them,—abandoned the gold standard, but a few still adhere to it. Then began the struggle of the currencies. Abandoning the gold standard was a measure of inflation. The next step was the more or less gradual reduction of the value of national currencies in terms of gold, the object being to raise prices which had fallen to a disastrously low level. In other words, policies of inflation were embarked upon.

But always in war, no matter the nature of the struggle, one party or country always endeavors to outdo the other. It is so in physical warfare. It is true in any tariff war. It is equally true in a war of inflation. When one country embarks upon a policy of inflation, even though it be primarily a matter of domestic concern alone, it immediately has repercussions in other countries. So when one country proceeds with a policy of inflation, and persists in it, sooner or later other countries will follow suit, and, in following suit, will, of course, seek to go other countries "one better."

Whatever may be said in favor of a degree of inflation on the one hand, or deflation on the other, to meet changing economic conditions,—and a country engaging in either the one policy or the other always proceeds on the assumption that great care will be exercised, and the policy fully controlled to prevent it getting out of hand,—the net result invariably is that it does get out of control, and the final stage of affairs is made worse rather than improved, and the process of financial recovery made more difficult and of longer duration, with losses made heavier.

A policy of inflation is being applied in the United States at the present time. As always, President Roosevelt is anxious to keep it within bounds, but there are great and powerful influences at work to carry it far beyond what the President desires and has in mind. Can the situation be controlled? When Congress re-assembles, indications are not lacking that great pressure will be applied to put the printing presses to work turning out billions of paper money, in addition to the present inflationary policy of decreasing the gold value of the dollar. And Congress is still supreme in the United States. It conferred very extensive emergency powers upon the President, giving him almost dictatorial powers. But it can withdraw those powers, or it can limit them so much farther than the President and his advisers deem it wise to go.

And Canada cannot be indifferent to or prove immune from the effects of United States policy, whatever it may be. Our trade and other relationships are too closely interwoven, and our financial undertakings, both public and private, so entwined that Canada will be directly affected. Whether we like it or not, Canadian policy must, of necessity, be governed to some extent,—possibly a large extent,—by United States policy in this matter.

Inflation and deflation, and their consequences, may be traced throughout the course of history, dating back to the years B.C., and the lessons of history teach us that inflation appears to have generally, if indeed, not always, ended in disaster. There was at first always the intention of control, but the movement usually ended by breaking all bounds. Increased purchasing power through inflation is only temporary; higher prices stimulate over-production and check consumption; new debts appear, and a return to stability is increasingly difficult.

The depression beginning in 1929 was preceded by wild speculation, encouraged and made possible by an expansion of credit, but encouraged and stimulated by installment selling on a scale never before witnessed. Many were the warnings issued at the time this wholesale expansion of credit, and unprecedented installment buying was in progress. It could be seen by any one willing to pause and consider that such installment buying,—all based on credit,—could not go on indefinitely; that a point must be reached when and where millions of individuals committed to installment payments would reach the end of their purchasing power, having used up all their credit and pledged all their resources. The saturation point was reached late in 1929, and the crash followed.

People had bought land, houses, motor cars, radios, equipment of all kinds, and many luxuries all on the promise to pay, weekly, monthly, yearly installments. The time came when they could make no more commitments, so production stopped, and with its stoppage, millions were thrown out of employment and were thus placed in a position where they could not meet their deferred installment payments. Prices fell and everywhere sustained losses.

Inflation might temporarily raise prices, just as speculation and installment buying, which, after all, was inflation pure and simple, did raise prices. But one form of inflation can not overcome the evils caused by another form of inflation.

Russia Builds Giant Plane

A giant airplane which can carry 126 passengers in addition to the pilot and crew has been built at the Kharkov in Soviet Russia. This great aircraft is known as the K-7, and has 16 compartments fitted with four sleeping berths in each. For day flying, each berth can be converted into two seats. There is also a cabin with seats and sofas, and a promenade in the middle of each wing.

Prince George Was Host

The Prince of Wales and Prince George were present at a dinner in London recently in celebration of the passing of the Factory Act. Prince George, in his capacity as a Home Office Inspector, acted as host to his sleeping berths in each. For day flying, each berth can be converted into two seats. There is also a cabin with seats and sofas, and a promenade in the middle of each wing.

A Tired, Worn Out Woman Can't Make a Happy Home

There is no happiness in the home when the mother is sick and ached by the never ending household duties. She gets run down and becomes nervous and irritable, has shortness of breath, faint and dizzy can't sleep, and gets up in the morning feeling as tired as she went to bed, and is disheartened and discouraged.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills will soon convince women it is not necessary to suffer, as they build up the nervous system and bring back the former health and vigor.

Currency Of Albania

Is Very Cosmopolitan

Smallest Nation In Balkans Uses Gold Of Other Nations

The tiny kingdom of Albania, small as it is, the Balkans, is the only country in that region which still pays its officials in gold, and where one may obtain gold in exchange for paper.

A general gasp of incredulity was noticeable in Sofia the other day, when the Albanian Bishop Vlasorion, representing the nation at the international conference for the union of International Friendship through the churches, calmly pulled a fat purse from under his cassock and paid his hotel and other expenses in hard yellow gold.

His Grace explained that Albania, having no national currency of its own, is obliged to pay its officials on the basis of the gold franc. But since that pre-war phenomenon is rare today, English sovereigns, Turkish piastres, Italian lire, and even United States $5 and $10 gold pieces are employed in addition to the old "Napoleons" or "Louis."

Until the United States went off the gold standard, a paper dollar was to be regarded as the most solid currency circulating in the Balkans, and was employed to replace gold as a medium of exchange. Since its drop, however, the Albanians and others have gone back to the precious metal dollar.

In all other Balkan countries the governments have confiscated all gold, replacing it by depreciable local paper currency. Heavy penalties are imposed on those found trafficking in gold, or taking foreign exchange out beyond the borders.

THREE ILLS ROUTED

Health Tip From Woman Of 67

"For headache, constipation—rheumatism—I use Kruschen. And since I have used it, I am in very much better health. In fact, I can now walk with those bad headaches and that general feeling of lassitude, Kruschen has helped me beyond all words. I am 67 and feel young," thus writes Mrs. M. G.

It is scarcely too much to say that it is that headache, constipation, and rheumatism all yield so completely to Kruschen? What is the secret of Kruschen's effectiveness against these different complaints? The secret is an open one. It is revealed in the analysis on the bottle—for physicians and everyone else to see. Six vital, mineral salts. That is the secret. Each of these salts has an action of its own. Where one cannot penetrate another can—and does. Stomach, liver, kidneys and digestive tract are all benefited and toned up to a top-notch condition of efficiency.

New Kind Of Glass

Tests Made In Germany Show That It Neither Splinters Nor Breaks

Glass which neither splinters nor breaks has been produced in Germany. In tests made recently three adults used a long thin stick as a saw. The glass shows an elasticity similar to that of highly flexible steel. A heavy steel ball dropped from a height of 10 feet left no impression. The glass is produced by a special heating process. Railway and automobile officials are interested in the product.

New Wrinkle-Proof Fabric

No End To Possibilities Of Discovery

A pair of men's trousers that hold their creases for six months or longer, and a complete suit of clothes which can be stretched out a foot from the body and then snapped back, were demonstrated in New York by their inventor, Percy Adamson.

"This suit I have on," said Adamson, pulling the buttoned vest out and letting it fly back with a pop, "hasn't been pressed since last spring."

"I had an entire wardrobe made up of the new process fabrics. I made a trip to Europe. Whenever I unpacked, I simply took out my suits, shook them and they were ready to wear. Not a single wrinkle, and the creases stood up in all their pristine splendor."

The inventor pulled up a resilient pants' leg and demonstrated his socks. The tops, while maintaining an ordinary, innocent appearance, were flexible, and there was no need for garters.

Adamson, who was born in the Lancashire, England, textile district and has been in the textile industry all his life, explained that there is no end of the possibilities of his discovery. Clothing for men, women and children already is being manufactured from "rubber" fabrics. The yarn or thread looks like any yarn or thread, as does its fabric. Yet in contains lacton, a newly-developed rubber form, and stretches surprisingly. Adamson brought out a sample of satin and samples of silk, cotton and wool. He pointed out that the amount of lacton in each fabric can be varied at will. The lacton is treated in such a manner that washing as well as pressing will not affect it. Furthermore, the snap will never leave the fabric.

Belgium Closing Four Prisons

Crime Seems To Have Fallen Off Since War

Crime has fallen off to such an extent in Belgium since the armistice that four of the thirty-nine prisons are to be closed. Prison officials attribute this state of affairs to the leniency of the courts and the operation of the first-offenders act. They say also that minors who formerly went to prison now go to the reformatory, which is not listed as a prison.

Fame Of Canadian Poultry Once More Demonstrated At World's Congress Held In Rome

Canada's world-wide fame for efficiency and the high quality of her poultry has once more been fully demonstrated. With the return from the Fifth World's Poultry Congress, which was held at Rome, Italy, P. C. Elford, Dominion Poultry Husbandman, official co-delegate with W. A. Brown, Chief of the Poultry Division, Dominion Live Stock Branch, some especially interesting information is being obtained with regard to this historical meeting.

Canada was the only exhibitor of live birds having government official records, a fact which created widespread interest, visitors from all parts of the world arriving at the Congress exhibit demanding to be shown the birds with the Government certificates.

Canada was represented by a small but attractive educational exhibit and by a number of registered R.O.P. and exhibition bred birds. When the live bird exhibit was being prepared, and because the birds were first promised by the Canadian National Poultry Record Association, it was considered better business not to sell these birds, but to donate them to persons, institutions or governments where they would do the most good for Canada. Among the birds that were donated was a trio of Chantrelles by His Holiness the Pope, several trios to the Italian Government and a trio to the British Consul General in Rome.

There were also the two official delegates already mentioned, and in addition many Canadians attended in their private capacity. The educational exhibit told the story of Canada's national breeding policy; illustrators showing poultry instruction in schools and with boys' and girls' clubs, farmers' flocks, the interior of a poultry laboratory, poultry culling and selection, R.O.P. flocks, laying contests and registration, marketing, standardization, grading, etc. The attractiveness and the completeness of the first made the Canadian exhibit a very popular one.

One remarkable point about the Congress was that it marked the reopening of the Market of Trajanus after a period of 2,000 years. During all that time the market-place had been lying buried among the ancient ruins of Rome, and twenty centuries ago had been the popular produce market where the Roman citizens purchased their eggs and poultry from the farmers. These ruins have been dug out and repaired, and significantly enough the experimental market was first used for the educational and live bird exhibits of the Fifth World's Poultry Congress. It was here in the Capital that the cackling of the sacred geese prevented the capture of the ancient Roman Citadel by the barbarians, so that the historic setting of the Market for the Congress was especially appropriate. However, the six floors and the numerous stairways of old stone steps were not the most convenient for an exhibit of this kind, nor the most advantageous for the attendants who had to climb five or six stories from one exhibit to another.

The Congress sessions were held in the building of the Agricultural Institute, and were attended by delegates from practically every European country and from Japan, Palestine, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, the United States and Canada.

These congresses are the tri-annual meetings of the World's Poultry Record Association, and professor Antonio Ghigi of Italy was selected Congress director and its next president.

The delegates were given every opportunity for sight-seeing, which included Rome and its environs, Naples, Pompeii, Vesuvius, etc. On two afternoons, sections of Italy were shown where swamps had been drained and the land reclaimed for agricultural purposes. The stupendous work done by the Mussolini Government was made apparent by a visit to places such as Littoria, where 65,000 acres ten years ago was a malarial swamp, covered at times with several feet of water, are today reclaimed land being shaped into farms. A part of this is devoted to cultivated farms inhabited by a happy population, with the death rate from malarial fever almost nonexistent.

Funds Are Lacking

Proposed Establishment Of Central Library Agency Off For Present
The Carnegie Corporation of New York stands ready to establish a central library agency for Canada, at a cost of more than $100,000 for the first five years, if guarantees are forthcoming that the project will receive adequate financial support from Canada at the end of the five-year period.

So stated John Ridington, University of British Columbia librarian who returned from a conference in Chicago with Dr. Frederick Keppel, president of the Carnegie Corporation.

The scheme was temporarily abandoned, Mr. Ridington said, when he could give no assurance that either the federal government or provincial governments would continue the grants. Discussions will be resumed next year after further investigation in Canada.

The agency would be established in Ottawa and "would act as a focal point for all library activities in the Dominion. It would be a co-ordinating and educational force and do bibliographical work," the university librarian said.

Nearly 40,000 People Attend Forestry Car Lectures Last Season

Nearly 40,000 people attended the lectures on the Canadian Forestry Association Tree Planting Car during the past season, according to the report of Alan B. Beaven.

The car left Regina March 25, and travelled for four months over the C.N.R. lines and then for three months over the C.P.R. lines.

It visited 128 centres, at which 256 lectures were given. Often 200 people crowded into the car to hear the lecture and see the movies, scenes from every province in the Dominion, and beautifully colored slides from aerial photographs taken in Saskatchewan, showing home beautification.

One hour of actual lecturing on tree planting and its benefits, particularly for shelter belts, home, street and public building beautification as well as for churches, centres, was given. Question periods followed each lecture. Invariably 30 or more especially interested listeners took part in the resultant discussion. Civic authorities were assisted with plans for civic tree planting and beautification. Similar assistance was given to many farmers whose grounds were visited by the car staff.

Four hundred and sixty letters of inquiry for information were answered, in addition to personal contacts.

School authorities and teachers declared holidays that children might attend. Special question period added to children's lectures for benefit of older pupils. Hints and assistance given for planting of trees and shrubs on school grounds.

Many orchards were found springing up as a result of protection afforded by shelter belts which in turn had been inspired by earlier tours of the forestry car.

The car returned to Regina, October 25.

Mileage covered was 2,217 miles.

Express Thanks

Saskatchewan Wheat Pool Delegation

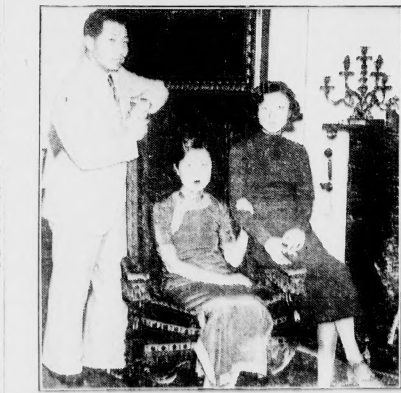

Grateful For Assistance Given
On behalf of their farmer organization, the delegates of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool at Regina, expressed deep appreciation to the people beyond this province who have given assistance to the drought-stricken areas of Southern Saskatchewan. A multitude of thanks introduced by two delegates from the affected areas was adopted unanimously.

As it was pointed out, the other provinces of Canada, from coast to coast, had come to the relief of thousands of people by successive crop failures, by supplying them with cars of fruit, vegetables, clothing, etc., realizing what this help meant to southern Saskatchewan people in a period of such distress, the delegates wished to make known how keenly they appreciated the action of their fellow-countrymen.

Proposal To Establish An Educational Foundation As Memorial To Farm Leader

Hunted Cattle For Hides

For 200 Years Argentine Ranchers Cared Little For The Meat

For two centuries, says the National Geographic Magazine, man's chief occupation among the gauchos, or cattle ranchers of the Argentine pampas was the pursuit of wild cattle. Stupendous numbers were slain merely for hides and tallow, as was true in California when Dana saw it and wrote "Two Years Before the Mast." Besides the many hides sent to Spain and smuggled out to other lands, countless thousands were used on the pampas for making clothing, hats, tents, sleds and even fences.

Cattle were so cheap that a rider would kill one merely to cut meat enough for his luncheon. One Argentine historian says soldiers used to shoot a beef so that they might tether horses to its horns, there being no trees.

And it was easy to capture them. A band of gauchos simply surrounded the herd. Then each man, armed with a long-handled pitchfork, or lance, with a sharp blade like a half moon hamstringing as many animals as possible before the herd broke away. This done, the gauchos dismounted, skinned the fallen animals, and abandoned the meat to carrion birds and wild dogs.

Hides took the place of money. When, by the treaty of Utrecht, England attained the sole right to import slaves into the River Plate country, she stipulated that the blacks should be paid for with hides and tallow.

From hunting cattle mostly for their hides, the folk of the pampas turned by 1850 to the export of dried beef. This went to feed slaves in the West Indies, where their labor was then building up the tobacco and sugar industries. "Jerky" (salt beef) is still made by the ton in the meat drying shed on the big estancias, and sometimes huge racks of it, like haystacks, are piled in the open air.

Chalk Fall Creates Island

No One Hurt In Cliff Slide On English Coast

A new island appeared in the English Channel between Dover and Deal, when thousands of tons of chalk at Larkland Point peeled away from the cliff and tumbled into the sea with a great roar.

Collapse of the cliff was the greatest fall on the English coast for many years. At high tide the chalk forms an island 300 feet from the mainland. No one was hurt in this slide.

Machinery for making slides has been developed which is said to enable three men to do the work that ordinarily took 100.

By an unanimous vote, delegates of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool, at their annual meeting in Regina, approved the establishment of an educational foundation, probably to include all three prairie provinces as a memorial to the late A. J. McPhail. Mr. McPhail was first president of the organization and of Canadian Co-operative Wheat Producers, Limited.

Accordingly, steps will be taken immediately to secure contributions to a fund to be known as the McPhail Memorial Foundation.

The objective of the foundation would be, by means of an educational programme to perpetuate the memory of an outstanding Canadian. This programme would be designed to serve: (1) The development of a fuller appreciation of the principles of co-operative effort; (2) A higher standard of living for the farm homes of western Canada, with a greater share in the comforts of civilization and an opportunity to live a fuller, freer, and happier life; (3) The building up of a wider recognition of the finest quality of citizenship as between rural and urban dwellers, to the end that equality of opportunity may be forthcoming to all classes of citizens.

The other provincial pools have indicated they are prepared to co-operate in the establishment of the foundation.

The committee suggested that the educational activities of the McPhail foundation might include: essay contests in schools; promotion of study groups among the agricultural populations; award of scholarships and lectureships in western Canadian universities; placing of suitable reading material in public school libraries of the west; junior and senior experimental and research work in agriculture.

"Moo-oo" interrupted "Brampton Basins." Mr. Bull didn't finish his speech.

A half-pint of milk in better part of the enormous output of 15,102 pounds of milk which "Basins" produced in a 365 days' test, was given to each guest.

Among the guests was Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture.

Placing The Blame

Not Generally Known That A Woman Introduced The Silk Cloth

When men curse the inventor of stiff collars, they are cursing a woman, though doubtless few of them know it. She was an American, Mrs. Hannah Montague. The wife of a blacksmith, she washed her husband's shirts and in doing so noticed that the collar was nearly always more dirty than the shirt itself. So, with a sudden inspiration, she cut off the collars and put bands around the necks. Then she starched the collars. They stayed clean longer. Mr. Montague was agreeably surprised. He told friends. That was a century ago. A tablet on a house in Troy, New York, still bears witness to the memory of the inventor of stiff collars.

The first man to use a microscope to study causes of disease is believed to have been the Jesuit priest, a German, sinus Kircher, who lived in the 17th century.

Pride in the Country's Credit.

There is absolute truth in the statement made by Premier Bennett that Canada has protected her credit to a remarkable degree during the depression, and that she has thus gained the respect and admiration of the world.

Canadian bonds are at a premium in New York, while Australian bonds are some twenty points under and Argentinian bonds are below that again. Some of the bonds of the South American countries are kicking around the market, almost unwanted at any price, and it is not unusual to see a 7 per cent. bond selling for $7.00, while par is $100.

Yes, we've protected our credit.
The world knows Canadian bonds are a good investment. The United States think there is no other country outside her own borders in which investments can more safely be made.
Consequently she has sent some four billion dollars northward for investment purposes.

It is a great achievement that Canada has made, but at what cost?
Canadians have suffered terribly in order that the country's credit may remain unimpaired. It is readily questionable whether the achievement was actually worth the cost in deprivation, worry and grief.

Of course, British peoples cherish their financial honors firmly. Brave, old, debt-ridden Britain assumed Newfoundland's indebtedness of $100,000,000 last week in order that the "eldest colony" would not default. One must admire the pride that goes with such actions—but is it all really worth while?

Different Prices at Different Points

Discontinuance of the "zone" sys-

In future gasoline prices will be sold. As a consequence there will be a great variety in prices throughout the west and a marked travelling from Lethbridge to Edmonton, for instance, will find the price different in many towns along the highway.

EDMONTON, Dec. 16.—When

Assurance to that effect was given gation from the Alberta Motor Association presented petitions to the government on Friday, asking that the period for licensing new licenses date from April 1 next instead of January 1. Some 27,500 names were on the petition. It was stated, representing many parts of the province.

The most beautiful maple leaf, prize winner in the nationwide competition conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway, was submitted by Mrs. C. McConnell, Fredericton, N. S., York County, New Brunswick. It has a flare of autumn coloring ranging from light yellow to deep blood red, and its perfect symmetry and form won it distinction in competition with 10,000 other beautiful leaves, submitted by enthusiastic Canadians from Coast to Coast. The leaf, a thing of sheer beauty, was selected by such outstanding artists as C. W. Simpson, R.C.A., R. W. Pilot, R.C.A., and James Crocker.

In the largest leaf phase of the competition, six-year-old Bobby Hume, of "Chevalerie, B.C., made a win with a leaf area of 222 square in.

The success which greeted the original competition this year has encouraged Canadian Pacific officials to plan for another competition on a larger and more comprehensive scale next fall.

Source Of Leather Supplies

United Kingdom Taking The Lead In This Class Of Manufacture

For generations, the United Kingdom has been an outstanding source of leather supplies for manufacturers of leather goods abroad and especially those in the principal European centres of the trade. At the same time leather goods manufactured in the United Kingdom have enjoyed a world-wide reputation for quality of workmanship and materials.

A number of influences in recent years have contributed to stimulate a natural development, namely the increasing manufacture of a wider diversity of leather goods in the United Kingdom itself. In certain branches of leather goods manufacture, notably saddlery, travel goods, belts, purses, pocket books and so on, Great Britain has always held a predominant position. Prior to 1914, however, British manufacturing production followed traditional lines and restricted itself to a somewhat narrow range. Few factories in the United Kingdom specialized in the production of such articles as ladies' handbags and the almost limitless variety of leather "fancy goods." That condition largely as a result of the general course of economic developments since the World War, has now been entirely changed.

The outstanding characteristic of the British leather and leather goods industry today is its amazing diversity. Nowhere is this more evident than in the growth in size and scope of the leather and leather goods sector of the British Industries Fair. Here every type and kind of leather and leather goods may be seen—from top and shoe leathers, book-binding and fancy leathers, upholstery leathers, leather cloths and so on to advertising novelties, handbags, belts, dog equipment, dressing cases, fancy leather goods, imitation leather goods, solid leather goods, picnic cases, purses, razor straps, saddlery, sports bags, leather coats and travelling requisites. Indeed, the trade buyer need go no further than the 1933 Fair to find leather goods of every conceivable kind and in a variety of designs unsurpassed anywhere. To this may be added the important consideration that, because production methods have been overhauled and costs have been drastically cut, British prices today are astonishingly low.

Every kind of leather is used in one or other of the British manufacturing towns—from waterproof sole leather, having the unique qualities given by tanning with British oak bark to African python and other reptilian leathers, patent leathers and, of course, Moroccan, which is obtained from the British East India. Sixty per cent of the leather used in Great Britain is produced within the British Empire, a large proportion of it coming from Canada. In becoming a prominent source of more varied leather goods manufacture, and especially in developing its range of travel and fancy leather goods, Great Britain has attracted designers and style experts from all the leading Continental countries. Not only so, but within the last few years increasing numbers of Continental manufacturers have opened leather goods factories in Great Britain for the production, there, of their own distinctive goods.

In this way a comprehensive variety of style, design and material is available.

been combined with the traditional high quality of British craftsmanship and materials. As a result, the entire British industry has been revitalized. The scope of its resources is now unequalled anywhere.

Canadian buyers of leather goods of all kinds who wish to buy to the best advantage and keep abreast of the latest developments in design and production cannot afford to miss the 1934 British Industries Fair which opens in London on the 19th of February.

Canadian Beef Preferred

Store Cattle Bring Good Price On Scottish Markets

Canadian store cattle occupy a favorable spot in Scottish markets and invariably sell at a slight premium over Irish cattle. A. J. Tingley, assistant trade commissioner in Scotland, writes in an article for the Commercial Journal.

It is realized, however, Mr. Tingley says, the Canadian market, like the market in Scotland, prefers young, well-bred cattle and, unfortunately, the surplus of these for export does not provide a sufficient number to ship only this class.

Until Canadian breeding generally is on a higher level, some of the rougher class will find a way to the British markets. Too much stress, however, cannot be placed upon the necessity for Canadian farmers to continue to improve their breeding herds, the commissioner writes, and for shippers to send over only young bullocks of good class and quality.

The type of animal in most demand is a young bullock approaching two years of age, from eight to nine cwt. in weight and of good class and breeding, the writer says. Aberdeen-Angus or Short-horn crosses are preferred, he writes.

Running For Centuries

Clock In England Seems Capable Of Going Indefinitely

The clock in the Parish Church at Eye, England, was started in 1515, was finished in 1549, and has been running ever since, except for the few times it was stopped for repairs. A well-known firm of clock makers now has the contract to keep it going and it seems capable of running indefinitely. This is said to be the only clock in the world having a pediment swinging through the roof and into the body of the church. For years its 1,500 pounds swinging over the choir before it was discovered to be supported by only a twineish rusty nail.

Twenty wild animal preserves, covering 266,000 square miles, have been established in British Africa.

Five Little Christmas Stockings.

By a Local Contributor

The bells are ringing gaily to Christmas anthems sung: 'Tis "Peace on earth, good will" once more, and hearts again are young.
It minds me so of other days and other Christmas Eves, When other souls were in our midst to share our joys and griefs, When here within these very walls, now sombre, grim and still,
Glad happy childish voices the joyous hours would fill, For I'm living in the past tonight, and I see by the fire's dull glow
The place where five little stockings hang sweetly in a row.
Our Billy boy was a lively son, while Jack was a quiet lad, But they both hung their stockings there to be filled by Mother and Dad;
And Betty and Dotty left their too, hoping for trinket and doll -
And just came tiny wee Mary's sock; the cutest of them all. And the kiddies were safe in bed, dreaming of Old Saint Nick,
And the treasures that would soon be theirs, all through a magic trick,
We'd steal so softly through the gloom and fill with loving care
The five little Christmas stockings hanging beneath the stair, Gone are the days that used to be; the little birds have flown;
They've left the home-nest one by one till I am all but alone, And I cry out in my loneliness - Oh, why should life thus be, Why do our loved one's leave us? Lord, help us the reason to see
For my heart is filled with an aching void, and I see by the fire's soft glow

The Red Cross Society desires to extend its sincere appreciation and gratitude to all those who have in one way or another contributed to the alleviation of distress in the Didsbury district and also to the welfare of the children in the Junior Red Cross Hospital. It is hoped that during this winter and the coming year you will continue your kindly co-operation. Donations of money or any of the other most necessary things will always be very gratefully received.

Wishing you all the Seasons Greetings.

Didsbury Branch,
Red Cross Society.

The Pastor will preach the Christmas sermon at Zion Evangelical Church on Sunday morning. In the evening the Sunday School will hold its annual Christmas exercises when a pageant entitled "Pioneers of Peace" will be presented.

Public School Operetta.

The operetta, "The Land of Dreams Come True," will be given in the Opera House this (Thursday) evening. There are 90 Public School children taking part, and for the past two or three weeks they have been working hard to bring the production up to perfection.

The interest of the parents is to be expected, but the quality of the operetta will give entertainment to all.

Burnside Notes.

Wedding bells are ringing!

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Doll spent Sunday with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cippelley.

Mr. Otto Ritter is in the Didsbury Hospital recuperating from an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. N. Eckel returned on Saturday from a week's visit with Calgary friends.

Mr. A. Jenkins was taken to the Didsbury Hospital last week, suffering from a ruptured appendicitis, but is doing as well as can be expected.

The people of the district will regret to hear of the death of Mr. Roy Woolley, who died at Calgary. After a short illness Mr. Woolley, who was champion horsehoe pitcher of Calgary, was well known here and had visited and played with the boys here on numerous occasions.

Before moving to Calgary he resided for a number of years in the Three Hills district. The funeral was held on Tuesday with staff Captain Sutherland conducting the services.

DIED

The death of Mr. Albert Alexander Stauffer occurred in Calgary on Monday, Dec. 18. He was 57 years of age. The funeral will be held on Thursday, Dec. 21st.
